CASE NO. C06-089RSM

ORDER DENYING MOTIONS TO DISMISS FOR FAILURE TO STATE A CLAIM

16 This matter is before the Court for a ruling on defendants' motions to dismiss for failure to state a 17 claim (Dkt. ## 134, 140) together with other defendants' motions for judgment on the pleadings (Dkt. ## 18 144, 145). All defendants assert the same basis for dismissal, namely that the Amended and Consolidated 19 Class Action Complaint (Dkt. # 57) fails to plead specific facts to support the claim of conspiracy, as 20 required by Bell Atlantic Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544 ("Twombly"). For the reasons set forth below, 21 the four motions shall be DENIED.

22 FACTUAL BACKGROUND

23 The plaintiff mink ranchers filed this class action on behalf of all persons "who sold unprocessed
24 animal furs . . . at auction in the United States directly to Defendants or their co-conspirators, 25 predecessors, or controlled subsidiaries . . ." between June 1, 2000 and June 1, 2004. Amended
26 Complaint, Dkt. # 57, ¶ 1. They allege that the defendants conspired to keep fur prices at an artificially
27 low level, in violation of Section 1 of the Sherman Act, 15 U.S.C. § 1, at American Legends Auctions
28 during those years. American Legends Auctions is an annual fur auction held in Seattle, Washington.

1 Complaint, Dkt. # 57, ¶¶ 49, 51. Two of the defendants named in the complaint, namely Alaska
2 Brokerage International, Inc., and David Karsch, were indicted in this district and entered pleas of nolo
3 contendere and guilty, respectively, to the charge of conspiracy to restrain trade in violation the Sherman
4 Act. Amended Complaint, ¶¶ 56-60. See, United States of America v. Alaska Brokerage International,
5 Inc., et al., CR06-0011JLR, Dkt. ## 1, 95, 100, 102. This civil action is brought pursuant to Sections 4
6 and 16 of the Clayton Act, 15 U.S.C. §§ 15 and 26, to recover treble damages for injuries incurred by 7 plaintiffs from defendants' alleged conspiracy. Amended Complaint, Dkt. # 57, ¶ 3.

8 Plaintiffs describe the alleged conspiracy among defendants to fix prices as follows:

9 Beginning at least by June 1, 2000 and continuing until at least June 1, 2004, Defendants and their 10 co-conspirators entered into and engaged in a continuing combination and conspiracy to suppress 11 competition by artificially lowering, fixing, rigging, maintaining, or stabilizing the auction bids and 12 prices of Furs. The combination and conspiracy engaged in by Defendants 13 and their co-conspirators is an unreasonable restraint of trade and Interstate Commerce in 14 violation of Section 1 of the Sherman Act, 15 U.S.C. § 1.

15 Amended Complaint, Dkt. # 57, ¶ 62. They then describe the actions taken by defendants in furtherance 16 of their conspiracy, starting with concentrating at one of two named Seattle hotels to facilitate their 17 collusion, and meeting before and during the auction to agree among themselves on maximum prices to 18 pay. Id., ¶ 63. Specific allegations shall be set forth in more detail below. Defendants have moved to 19 dismiss the amended complaint on the grounds that it fails to meet pleading standards established for anti-20 trust litigation.

21 ANALYSIS

22 Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 8 sets forth the basic pleading requirement of "a short and plain 23 statement of the claim showing that the pleader is entitled to relief." F.R.Civ.Proc. 8(a)(2). The 24 Supreme Court recently clarified the pleading requirement with respect to anti-trust cases, stating that 25 factual allegations "must be enough to raise a right to relief above the speculative level." Bell Atl. Corp.
26 v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 555 (2007) (citations omitted). "[A] plaintiff's obligation to provide the 27 grounds of his entitlement to relief requires more than labels and conclusions, and a formulaic recitation 28 of the elements of a cause of action will not do." Id. (internal quotation marks, brackets, and citation omitted). A Sherman Act § 1 claim "requires a complaint with enough factual matter (taken as true) to suggest that an agreement was made." Id. at 556.

1 In Twombly, at least in anti-trust matters, the Supreme Court “retired” the familiar rule derived 2 from Conley v. Gibson, 355 U.S. 41, 45-46 (1957), which provided “that a complaint should not be 3 dismissed for failure to state a claim unless it appears beyond doubt that the plaintiff can prove no set of 4 facts in support of his claim which would entitle him to relief.” Id., at 561 (quoting Conley). The Court 5 proclaimed that “this famous observation has earned its retirement” and “is best forgotten as an 6 incomplete negative gloss on an accepted pleading standard.” Id. at 563. Thus, “[a]t least for the 7 purposes of adequate pleading in anti-trust cases, the Court specifically abrogated the usual ‘notice 8 pleading’ rule.” Kendall v. Visa U.S.A., Inc., 518 F.3d 1042, 1047 n. 5 (9th Cir.2008).

9 Section 1 of the Sherman Act prohibits “[e]very contract, combination in the form of trust or 10 otherwise, or conspiracy, in restraint of trade or commerce among the several States.” 15 U.S.C. § 1.
11 However, it has long been recognized that Congress did not intend to give literal meaning to those words, 12 but instead only intended to make unlawful unreasonable restraints on trade. State Oil Co. v. Khan, 522
13 U.S. 3, 10 (1997). Therefore, to establish a claim under § 1 of the Sherman Act, the plaintiff must show 14 1) that there was a contract, combination, or conspiracy among two or more entities 2) that 15 unreasonably restrained trade and 3) that the restraint affected interstate commerce. Columbia River 16 People’s Utility District v. Portland GE, 217 F. 3d 1187, 1189-90 (9th Cir. 2000).

17 1) The First Element—Existence of an Agreement.

18 Under the first element of a § 1 claim, a plaintiff must plead the existence of a contract, 19 combination, or conspiracy, meaning a defendant did not operate unilaterally, but instead, at least two 20 entities acted in concert. Copperweld Corp. v. Independence Tube Corp., 467 U.S. 752, 768 (1984).
21 The crucial question “is whether the challenged anticompetitive conduct ‘stem[s] from independent 22 decision or from an agreement, tacit or express’” Twombly, 550 U.S. at 553, *quoting Theatre
23 Enterprises, Inc., v. Paramount Film Distributing Corp.*, 346 U.S. 537, 540 (1954).

24 The allegations of the Amended Complaint set forth above are adequate to meet the first element 25 of a § 1 Sherman Act claim. Specifically, plaintiffs allege that defendants “allocated certain lots among 26 themselves, agreed not to bid on certain lots, agreed to a collusive bidding strategy, and agreed to 27 distribute pelts acquired by one Defendant at auction to other Defendants. . . .” Amended Complaint, ¶ 28 63(d) (emphasis added). Further, “defendants agreed to bid and pay, and did bid and pay, artificially low

1 prices for the Furs sold by Plaintiffs and other members of the Class. . . .” Id., ¶ 63(e) (emphasis added).
2 Finally, plaintiffs allege that in February 2004, “Defendants threatened, facilitated, and perpetrated a 3 group boycott of a planned new auction bidding system at American legend in Seattle, Washington, that,
4 according to a press report, was aimed at thwarting broker/buyer bidding cartels.” Id., ¶ 63(h) (emphasis
5 added). These paragraphs all state allegations that defendants’ anti-competitive conduct resulted from 6 tacit agreements among themselves, which is sufficient to meet the first requirement. Twombly, 550 U.S.
7 at 553.

8 Defendants argue that plaintiffs have not met the Twombly pleading requirements because they do
9 not specifically identify which defendants acted in concert. However, the allegation is that all defendants
10 took the actions alleged above, so it is not necessary to name them individually. As the Supreme Court
11 stated in Twombly,

12 In applying these general standards to a § 1 claim we hold that stating such a claim requires 13 a complaint with enough factual matter (taken as true) to suggest that an agreement was 14 made. Asking for plausible grounds to infer an agreement does not impose a probability 15 requirement at the pleading stage; it simply calls for enough fact to raise a reasonable 16 expectation that discovery will reveal evidence of illegal agreement.

17 Id. at 556. This holding is far from the “who, what, when, and where” requirement that defendants 18 argue was established in Twombly. Certain Defendants’ Motion to Dismiss, Dkt. # 140, p. 4, citing 19 Twombly, 550 U.S. at 565 n.10. In the cited footnote, the Court found fault with a complaint which 20 “mentioned no specific time, place, or person involved in the alleged conspiracies.” Here, by contrast, 21 plaintiffs have adequately stated the time and place (American Legends fur auctions in Seattle between 22 2000 and 2004) as well as the persons involved (all named defendants). This is “enough fact to raise a 23 reasonable expectation that discovery will reveal evidence of illegal agreement.” Twombly, 550 U.S. at 24 556.

25 2). The Second Element--the Agreements Unreasonably Restrain Trade

26 Under the second element of a § 1 claim, a plaintiff must show the challenged agreement
27 unreasonably restrains trade by establishing anti-competitive effects. To make this showing under the rule 28 of reason analysis, a plaintiff generally must establish market power. Adaptive Power Solutions, LLC v.
Hughes Missile Sys. Co., 141 F.3d 947, 951 (9th Cir.1998). “Market power is the ability to raise prices above those that would be charged in a competitive market.” NCAA v. Bd. of Regents, 468 U.S. 85, 109

1 n. 38 (1984). Conversely, as alleged here, it is also the ability to lower prices below what sellers would 2 receive in a competitive bidding process.

3 Plaintiffs have adequately established defendants' market power by alleging that the Defendants 4 are among the small number of fur brokers and dealers who dominate the fur auctions, known in the 5 industry as "big takers." Amended Complaint, ¶ 52. By agreeing to act in concert, they could have a 6 significant anti-competitive effect on the auction process. Id., ¶ 62.

7 3) The Third Element—Restrain of Interstate Commerce

8 Plaintiffs have adequately pled that defendants' activities affected interstate commerce at ¶¶ 34-35
9 of the Amended Complaint. Defendants have not argued otherwise.

10 CONCLUSION

11 The allegations in the Amended Complaint are sufficient to meet the Twombly pleading 12 requirements for anti-trust complaints. Accordingly, defendants' motions to dismiss (Dkt. ## 134, 140)
13 and defendants' motions for judgment on the pleadings (Dkt. ## 144, 145) are DENIED.
